THE WASHINGTON HERALD

THERE isn't a day goes by that doesn't furnish fresh evidence of the fact that the morning paper is the News-paper, presenting the news while it is alive and important. There is a difference between news and "re-write" and that difference is the difference between morning and evening newspapers.

NO. 3639. WEATHER—FAIR. WASHINGTON, D. C. THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1916. ONE CENT.

WILSON SILENT; "BEFORE JURY"

Declines to Speak to Cheering
Crowds from Train.

(By the International News Service.) Chicago, Oct. 4.—President Wilson was given an enthusiastic welcome in Ohio and Indiana today while en route to Omaha. At fourteen stations where brief stops were made, crowds estimated at a total of probably 40,000 persons got a glimpse of the Chief Executive but were disappointed in the expectation of hearing a campaign speech.

"I am before the jury; I cannot talk," Mr. Wilson repeated when the demand for a speech would be insisted.

The President's party, which included Mr. Wilson, Dr. Cary T. Grayson and Joseph Tumulty, reached Chicago at 3:25 o'clock this evening. The journey was continued at 10 o'clock, after the special cars had been shifted from the Pennsylvania to Chicago and Northwestern tracks.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, with several prominent Democrats, were on the President's private car while it was here.

Mr. Wilson was in a most happy frame of mind at the close of the day's experiences. He considers now that his chances of carrying the doubtful State of Ohio are good unless a rousing welcome to the Chief Executive of the nation was mistaken for genuine Democratic enthusiasm.

E. G. Hoffman, Democratic national committeeman from Indiana, boarded the train at Lima, Ohio. He also brought encouragement with him.

EITHER TAFT OR T. R. SLAPPED OTHER'S BACK

Elevator Greeting Story Told by Willcox—"Not Love," Says McCormick.

(By the International News Service.) New York, Oct. 4.—There are two things which cannot be successfully warmed over: dinner and an old love. This was the comment of Chairman Vance C. McCormick, of the Democratic National Committee, tonight on the meeting of Col. Roosevelt and former President Taft at the United League luncheon.

"From what I have read," added McCormick, "the widely advertised love feast provided plenty to eat but very little love."

Chairman William Willcox, of the Republican National Committee, was authority for the statement today that either Roosevelt or Taft accented the other with a slap on the back. This was after dinner and took place in an elevator. The greeting was accompanied by a compliment on the speech of either Taft or Roosevelt, according to Willcox.

George W. Perkins, the prominent Progressive, offered to lay odds today that it was Col. Roosevelt who did the cordial back-slapping.

WILSON NOTE WRITING DENOUNCED BY COLONEL

Roosevelt Sends Stinging Reply to Secretary Lane Regarding Policy.

(By the International News Service.) Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Col. Roosevelt today sent a stinging letter to Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the Interior, in reply to the latter's denial that he had admitted that the note-writing policy of the Wilson administration has been a failure.

In his Battle Creek speech, the Colonel quoted Secretary Lane for so saying, and the Cabinet officer quickly informed Mr. Roosevelt that he had not expressed such sentiments.

In his denial, however, Mr. Lane asserted that he was not denying policy, the United States had "achieved the greatest diplomatic triumph of half a century," and the Colonel uses this assertion as a basis for a blistering attack on the administration.

The letter in part is as follows:

"You say in regard to our note-writing to Germany, we have 'achieved the greatest diplomatic triumph of half a century.' In February, 1915, in our first note, we informed Germany that if her submarines caused the death of any of our people by sinking ships on which they were traveling, we would hold her to 'strict accountability.'"

For over a year thereafter we continued to write notes, and the Germans continued to sink ships on which our citizens were traveling. They killed all told some 2,000 noncombatants, between one and two hundred babies under 2 years of age, fifty of whom were under 1 year of age. There were several hundred women among the persons killed.

"We did not hold Germany to 'strict accountability.' We did not hold her to any accountability, strict or loose. For one year we permitted the killings to go on unchecked. No statement has been given us by Germany for our people who were killed."

LAUNDRY IS URGED D. C. TROOPS OFF

Public School Pupils May Do
Own Washing.

The protest of the alumni of the Business High School against the transfer of a large part of the student body to the old Central High School Building, the accommodation of the superintendent of insurance in regard to school observance of Fire Prevention Day, a resolution permitting the hanging of wall charts with the Ten Commandments on them in schoolrooms, the establishment of a laundry at the Central High School, and numerous petitions from citizens and changes in the personnel of the teaching staff, were discussed at the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon at the Franklin School Building.

W. C. Sullivan, on behalf of the school interests committee of the Business High School Alumni Association, vigorously protested against the use of the old Central High School for the overflow from Business High School. He contended that the distance between the buildings was too great to permit an interchange of teachers without loss of time to the students and practically split the student body into two separate groups. Mr. Sullivan said that the Grover Cleveland School was but half occupied and had simple space to accommodate the pupils of Business High School. If the school board did not take action in accordance with the recommendation, his organization would procure the introduction of a bill in Congress to force the school to "put it up to Congress," he said, "and we won't sit by and see the school split up. Something ought to be done."

The protest of the alumni association was referred to the superintendent of schools.

Following a recommendation of Charles F. Nesbitt, superintendent of insurance of the District, it was voted to celebrate "National Fire Prevention Day" on October 3, in co-operation with the municipal fire department.

CAPITAL WOMAN WILL WED ITALIAN PRINCE

Miss Margaret Draper, Daughter of Former Envoy, Engaged.

Boston, Oct. 4.—"The richest young woman in Massachusetts," Miss Margaret Draper, is announced today to be engaged to Prince Andrea Boncompagni, of Rome, an officer in the Italian army recently wounded in the war.

The date of the wedding has not been announced from Washington, where Miss Draper now makes her home.

She is the daughter of the late William F. Draper, former Ambassador to Italy, and her fortune is estimated at about $5,000,000. When she made her debut in Washington in 1911, live humming birds and butterflies were liberated in a miniature garden constructed for the occasion.

Miss Draper's godmother, for whom she was named, was Queen Margherita of Italy. At the time Mr. Draper was Ambassador in Rome, Mrs. Draper's jewels were said to equal in value those of the Queen.

Prince Andrea, who was born in 1884, comes of an old Italian family.

FIELD MARSHAL NAMED NEW JAPANESE PREMIER

(By the International News Service.) Tokyo, Oct. 4.—Field Marshal Terauchi has been named by the Emperor to succeed Count Okuma as premier of Japan.

In appointing Field Marshal Terauchi, the Japanese Emperor passed over Count Okuma's recommendation that Viscount Takashi Kato succeed him.

Terauchi is governor general of Korea and has been regarded by powerful influences in Japan as the logical successor to Okuma. He is known to have a close influence with the Japanese military party and is said to favor a more aggressive policy by Japan both on the Chinese question and the California immigration law problem.

ROOSEVELT TO ADDRESS ROUGH RIDERS IN TEXAS

(By the International News Service.) New York, Oct. 4.—Col. Roosevelt is going to invade the home of his former "rough riders" and speak at El Paso, Tex., it was announced today.

The itinerary so far is incomplete, but it is known that it will include stops at various border towns in the Southwest.

This drive in particular will be aimed at Arizona and New Mexico, which Republican campaign managers believe can be carried for Hughes.

Col. Roosevelt's popularity in border States and dissatisfaction with the Wilson Mexican policy are looked to do the trick.

(By the International News Service.) Lexington, Ky., Oct. 4.—A squad of county police, after strenuous efforts, today saved the body of Roy Dickson from cremation at the hands of forty infuriated women.

MILITIAMEN LEAVE FOR BORDER Late at Night.

The Third Infantry left for San Antonio, Tex., last night after three months and thirteen days at Camp Ordway, the last section pulling out of the yard about last midnight.

Too much work was left for the last minute, and as a result, the guardsmen and their friends who came to see them off were subjected to hardships usually avoided even in war time.

The camp was cleaned up and left in better condition than when it was first established. All the rubbish was cleaned up and most of the soldiers performed a long day's labor with only one meal since Tuesday night. The paymaster arrived in camp early yesterday and paid all of the men, including the recruits for the First Separate Battalion, who will stay at Ordway until the return of their battalion at a later date, when they will be mustered out of the Federal service.

The camp presented a scene of continuous activity until 6 o'clock, when the troops left on the march for Roswell. An old negro who was a cook in the Federal army during the civil war came to see the boys before they left. Many of the relatives and friends of the District soldiers were at the camp to say farewell and a crowd of more than 4,000 gathered at Roswell about 5 o'clock, when the troops were supposed to leave for Texas. On account of the delay in the movement, they were forced to wait on the siding until late at night to witness the departure of the guardsmen.

The first section, which was scheduled to leave at 5 o'clock, was drawn out of the yard at 8:10 o'clock. The second section, which was to leave at 5:15, did not leave until 10:10, and the third section, which was to leave at 5:30, did not leave until 11:10.

PHYSICIAN NEAR DEATH IN FIGHT WITH PLAGUE

Hope Practically Abandoned for Dr.
A. L. Hunt.

All hope of saving the life of Dr. Arthur L. Hunt, 38 years of age, who is suffering from an attack of infantile paralysis, was practically abandoned last night by physicians of the United States Public Health Service and several of the most prominent local physicians. It was feared that Dr. Hunt would not live through the night.

In his own case, Dr. Hunt is known to the first doctor to fall victim of the disease since the recent epidemic. As an inspector of contagious diseases in the District, he had but one case of the infantile malady—occurring last July.

In his own case, Dr. Hunt first discovered the symptoms last Friday. Dr. Charles Bell, a colleague, immediately was called in but at that time was uncertain as to the nature of the ailment. The case developed rapidly, however. Several surgeons, friends of Dr. Hunt, connected with the United States Public Health Service, went into consultation with some of the most prominent physicians of Washington in an effort to save his life. Their efforts proved futile and Dr. Hunt steadily grew worse.

The court held that insufficient evidence was produced to substantiate the charge of fraud.

HIT FOURTH LINE

French and British on Somme
Battle in Rain.

(By the International News Service.) London, Oct. 4.—With the French and British before the German fourth line after more than two months of almost continuous fighting, the autumn storms for which Pledary is famous have brought a temporary lull in operations on the Somme.

Rain fell for the greater part of the day, and it was only between showers that the allied artillery could carry on its "softening" process against the new line of defenses which the infantry now faces.

There were scattered engagements of a violent, but local character. During the night the British regained complete possession of Eaucourt L'Abbaye, while the French carried a powerful line of field fortifications extending from a point near Morval to St. Pierre-Vaast Woods.

During the day the French advanced still farther east of Morval. In a reconnaissance of the evening of the last two months, Gen. Haig today points out that the British now hold all the commanding heights south of the Ancre to the point where their line joins that of the French.

CUPID REVISES LISTS OF SCHOOL TEACHERS

An echo of "Rule Forty-five" which threatened to disrupt the Board of Education last summer, was heard yesterday at the board meeting in the Franklin School.

The rule, which has been repealed, provided that married women could not hold positions as teachers in the public schools. Last summer several young women of the teaching staff were married and taking advantage of the repeal of the discriminatory regulation, retained their positions. On the pay rolls, however, they were still known by their maiden names. It was necessary therefore to petition the board to change them to read in accordance with the court records.

ROUMANIAN BLOW AT ENEMY FAILS

Bulgarians Push Back Foe.
Begin Counter Invasion.

(By the International News Service.) London, Oct. 4.—The Roumanian invasion of Bulgaria has failed and the Bulgarians are attempting a counter invasion, according to official statements reaching here tonight.

On the greater part of the Dobruja front, however, as well as in the Carpathians, the Roumanians and their Russian allies have struck heavy blows at the Teutonic-Bulgarian armies, capturing more than 4,000 prisoners and making progress in important sectors.

According to a report from the German war office, the Roumanian forces which constructed a bridge across the Danube between Ruschuk and Tutulaki, crossing into Bulgarian territory and advancing as far as the town of Rishova, were forced to fall back as the result of the encirclement movement set into motion by Marshal Warfield, commander-in-chief in this region.

The report neglects to state whether a clash at arms occurred on Bulgarian soil or how the Roumanians made good their retreat.

It previously had been announced that Austrian monitors had destroyed the pontoons upon which the invaders crossed the Danube.

Meanwhile, moving from Vidin, on the Danube, the Bulgarians seized the river island of Malak Kalafat and opened a bombardment of the Roumanian city of Kalafat on the river bank.

(By the International News Service.) Berlin (via Saville), Oct. 4.—The Sofia correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung has just submitted a report of the investigation of Roumanian atrocities in the Dobruja conducted by United States and British military and naval and newspaper correspondents.

Conditions in the towns of Dobrich, Baltrig, Silistria, and their surroundings were investigated. The correspondent says the Trans-Ocean News Bureau writes:

"We saw everywhere on our trip in the towns and in the country a pathetic expression of terror on the faces of the inhabitants caused by these atrocities. Everywhere we heard the same plaint of loss of life and property."

"One entire village was destroyed by fire, and large quantities of corn belonging to peoples of all classes was carried away. In the village of Afair, where by the use of false promises, men of the high aristocracy in
